

Two major interstate highways run through Warwick while a third, only minutes away, provides convenient access to T.F. Green Airport (PVD) and the soon-to-be opened Intermodal Facility. Upon completion in 2010, the Intermodal Facility will serve MBTA commuter trains traveling between Warwick, Providence and Boston. In addition, there will be a bus hub for local and intercity bus services. With such a unique convergence of air, rail and interstate travel, Warwick truly is the crossroads of Southern New England.

Click any of the images below to begin.

Traffic Conditions - Through our interactive online resource, review current traffic reports, road conditions, and more.

T.F. Green Airport - As one of New England's fastest growing airports, T.F. Green is fulfilling its potential.

Bus Schedules - The Rhode Island Public Transit Authority (RIPTA) is a quasi-public, independent agency.

Intermodal Update - The highly anticipated Warwick Intermodal Facility is scheduled to open for service in 2010.

TRANSWICK

Any Warwick resident who is 55 years of age or older, disabled, or does